Did you know that 7 in 10 girls believe that they are not good enough or don't measure up in some way, including their looks, performance in school and relationships with friends and family members? Nearly 75% of these girls with low self-esteem will engage in negative activities like cutting, bullying, drinking or eating disorders. Additional reports show that depression and anxiety is also on the rise, with 23% of high school girls seriously considering suicide.

The League of Courageous Women was founded with a mission of bringing leadership to girls at a critical time when the desire to be a leader drops dramatically; and helping build a pipeline of leadership that will continue from middle school, through high school, to college and beyond. Our organization is backed by a team of professional women, inspired to create a stronger community by empowering young women to confidently rise to the next level on their journey.

The League of Courageous Women is organizing a Women's Leadership Summit on September 28-29th to help inspire, empower, and connect a network of young women with professional women as mentors, friends, and a driving force of change in the community.

The Women's Leadership Summit is targeting young women that have the desire to be leaders and a driving force of change in the community. In a new model of mentorship, the event will engage girls from middle school, high school, college, as well as community leaders in the conversation of leadership focusing on integrity, authentic leadership, and overcoming their fears to set courageous goals.

We are asking for your support this mission and create a ripple effect of change in our community by inspiring Young Women to hold firmly to their confidence and strive to be natural leaders by connecting them to an ongoing support network of peers and professionals. We hope that you will support the League of Courageous Women and the future of Young Women.

Sincerely,

Cyndee Woolley
